

Hello friends,

This is the newsletter for the week of May 31-June 6. No news for last week, but we're back at it again with more news, events and deadlines.

Announcements

We hope this creativity class has you feeling inspired, because the charity fundraiser for united way on Thursday, June 10th from 7-10pm is still in need of performers! We're looking for any and all acts of talent at any level, after all, it's for a great cause! No qualifications necessary.

Interested in performing at the open mic (live or prerecorded)? Fill out this form:

Want to attend, but not perform? Fill out this form BY MAY 31ST (you can still be come if you sign up later):

The MMs, MBANs, MBAs, RHL staff and professors will all be attending, and all are collaborating to make this event possible. This will be the very first event of its kind in RHL history.

Why should you want to be there?

1. It's going to be a super fun time for a very good cause (who doesn't like a good charity with some goofy/talented acts?)
2. It's a great way to connect with your peers and staff, with an optional networking session at the end.
3. We want a better MM student turnout than the MBAs and the MBANs because GO MM!!! LET'S REPRESENT!!!

Patisserie Club: This week's pastry session was centered around 'Mille Feuilles', a combination of puff pastries, pastry cream and hazelnut cream, after an insightful session on wine tasting. Thanks to Ming for another very entertaining club meeting! (Left: Tia, Right: Ming)

Social Impact Club: Last week, the social impact club had a formal session with a discussion led by Nelle around a podcast Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion 101 (with Richemont's Doug Melville): Race at Work with Porter Braswell. It was a highly engaging discussion, and a great continuation of the ethics conversations!

We're excited to see all of the community engagement within the cohort. Want to join in? Contact the club leaders to connect with these sessions!
